

This marks my second project for the AcademyXi course, where I utilized data from the King County. Through the application of linear regression, I aimed to provide insights on prioritizing renovations to enhance a house's market value.